HERITAGE JUNIOR FORMULA TWO STOCK CARS

Brisca Heritage F2 stock car racing came from an idea formed by Keith Barber, former racer and promoter, and Roy Clarke, stock car driver from the 1960s, to demonstrate to 21st century fans what racing was like in the past.

Cars are either originals or replicas often built by the original drivers, and families that have been involved over the years.

The cars used are built from original parts wherever possible, with current safety features incorporated.

The racing is still competitive, but not as physical as modern day racing to consider the age of the machinery, and some of the drivers, many of whom are in their seventies and even eighties!

The cars line up in groups, similar to modern day grades, compiled from previous performances and the type of cars, which range from full size saloon cars, and small and lightweight specials.

Grading colours are not adhered to, as many cars are presented in the colours of the driver or family represented.

Every time a driver wins a race he is automatically moved to the back of the next group for the next race.

Championship and perpetual trophies feature in the Fixture list, and are hotly contested!

For more information go to www.heritagef2stockcars.co.uk. Brisca Heritage F1 stock cars racing is not often seen these days due to the vast difference in the construction of cars over the years since 1954, but there are a group of cars of a similar era that will be appearing this year at Buxton Raceway.
